

What are you people thinking? We need an informed citizenry.. we need diversity and thought provoking information so that we can keep what little democracy we have left available to us. This country is headed towards a no-good aim. You are public officials; start acting like you care about us and the ideals of democracy.

cindy curran